Although more and more organizations are adopting paperless business software to optimize operations, there is no shortage of hardcopy documents in the office. Every day, talented professionals throughout organizations spend too much time getting information on paper into their core business systems. At the end of the day, mistakes are made, bottlenecks halt processes, deadlines are missed, customers are upset, and profit margins shrink. But with the Panasonic KV-N1058X's ability to automate scanning processes and connect with core business systems, busy departments don't have to worry about these kinds of problems.

"The Panasonic KV-N1058X comes with a large colour touchscreen display, which makes it easy to take full advantage of all the device's features and functionalities," said Lee Davis, Editor of Scanner and Software Evaluation for Keypoint Intelligence - Buyers Lab. "Panasonic's bundled software, Image Capture Plus and Image Capture Plus Express, are very impressive. You can do everything from cleaning up poor image quality to using OCR zones to read specific fields on a form."
